Kailee's work stems from her background in woodturning, growing up in her father's shop, but has evolved to include a variety of materials and processes. Kailee is interested in and blending traditional craft practices with digital fabrication, making both functional objects and speculative designs.

Laurent Niclot

Laurent Niclot is originally from Toulon in the south of France, but is currently living and working in Fort Collins, Colorado USA. He has always loved wood, so it was only natural for him to study woodworking, woodcarving, cabinet making, furniture making, and design. He discovered woodturning from Jean-François Escoulen, and he knew it was how he wanted to make a living. So, in 2015, at age 20, he took the six-month woodturning class at the Escoulen School in Aiguines, France, with Jean-François and Yann Marot. Then, the school hired him as an assistant and translator for 3 years, gave him a studio and a lathe to practice his passion, and the possibility to meet many other artists. His current work ranges from traditional woodturning to woodburning, carving, multi-axis, coloring and texturing.

Mark Kielpinski

Mark is the current Past-President of the Dakota Woodturners. He was recently awarded Lifetime Member status as a Dakota Woodturner. He has served in a leadership role within the club starting as the treasurer and then serving a couple of terms as President of the DWT. It was in the quest to learn how to make wood turned puzzles that got Mark interested in the art of wood turning. His woodturning interest wanders among turning, texturing, inlay and platters, woodburning, color and zentangle. Mark has attended many regional and national symposium and believes that those venues are a great place to learn new techniques and foster connections with other woodturners.
